LOCAL AND OTHER NOTES.

The Lord Bishop of Ripon will preach in Romaldkirk Church next Sunday morning, and in Startforth Church in the afternoon.

Captain Roy H. Helmer, of Romaldkirk, has been awarded the Military Cross.

Last Thursday night a local magistrate had his garden robbed of apples.

Private J. C. Heslop, of the London Regiment, son of Major J. W. B. Heslop, Startforth Villa East, has been gazetted a second-lieutenant in the Durham Light Infantry.

Russia is now faced by the possibilities of civil war, the rival parties being at grips.

It is recorded in the "Newcastle Daily Journal" of Saturday that the firm of Messrs George Charlton, jun., Morpeth, of which the Deputy Mayor of the borough (Mr T. W. Charlton) is a member, have cut a field of oats (Storm King) which is in several respects remarkable. Upon one head there are no fewer than 145 grains. But, what is more remarkable, Mr Gibson is trying in a small way, and as an experiment, to grow oats at Valance Lodge, in Upper Teesdale, and with gratifying results. On several of the heads can be counted 154 to 160 grains of fine oats.

Paul Beard, the Birmingham musical prodigy, nephew of Mr John Smith, J.P., of Grove Park, the son of Mr J. A. Beard, the well-known viola player, and nephew of the late Mr Fred Beard, has gained distinction at the Royal Academy of Music, where he holds a scholarship, and where he has lately carried off a number of honours, to mention only the bronze medals for violin playing and sight-singing, and the Chairman's prize of £20 for leading the winning string quartet—truly a most notable achievement for one so young, for he is only fifteen years of age. In the Midlands, and at some of the principal seaside resorts, his remarkable violin-playing has aroused great enthusiasm. He is of a retiring disposition, and entirely unspoil by success.

To-morrow afternoon the remains of the late Mr George Bell, of West Wood, Langleydale, who died on Sunday last, aged 79, will be interred in the Church Cemetery at Barnard Castle. The deceased gentleman, who was a thoroughly practical and highly successful and substantial farmer, is believed to have been the oldest tenant on the Raby Estate at the time of his demise. He farmed for many years at Louton Hill, Lynesack and Softley, and had been engaged in agriculture at West Wood for forty years. The late Mr Bell was twice married, but there are no children.

After a long illness, Mr W. Kipling, of Clove Lodge, died last Wednesday morning at the age of 76 years. The deceased was one of the most respected inhabitants in Baldersdale, and the esteem in which his memory was held was tenderly demonstrated on Saturday last, when, at the interment in Cotherstone Cemetery, a very large number of dalesmen and friends from far and near attended the obsequies.

Rifleman George Powell, King's Royal Rifles, who has been missing since July 10th, has recently sent word home that he is wounded in the right hand, and is a prisoner of war. He is in hospital, and doing well. He was wounded in the leg on September 10th, last year.

Sapper Harry Neilson, of the Royal Engineers, eldest son of Mr and Mrs G. Neilson, of 6, Balliol-street, is home on ten days leave from the front.

The Rev. J. B. Robinson reports that 480 eggs were despatched from the local depot last week for the wounded soldiers and sailors. Of these, 176 and 14s. 3d. cash were kindly forwarded by the Rev. H. Straker, Vicar of Bowes, being the proceeds of his church collection on the previous Sunday; Mrs Hird, of Spital, sent 22; and Mrs Douglas, of Startforth, 9. The remainder were obtained by the collectors in Barnard Castle. Mr Robinson will be glad to hear of anyone who will assist in collecting for the above purpose.

Mrs Harry Hodgson has received official news that her husband, Private H. Hodgson, of 17, Conyers-terrace, Broom, Ferryhill (late of Barnard Castle), died of wounds received in action on August 17th, 1917. In a letter to his wife Second-Lieutenant R. Morton, of Barnard Castle, says: "I regret to acquaint you that your husband died of wounds this morning. I may say that he was a fine soldier, and he always did his duty well. I shall make every effort to let you know where he is to be buried, and also see that a cross is erected to his memory. I ask you to accept the deepest sympathy from all his comrades and myself." The late Private Hodgson was the eldest son of Mr and Mrs T. Hodgson, formerly of Barnard Castle. He leaves a widow and three little children for whom much sympathy is felt.

UPPER DALE NOTES.

[BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

Harvest festival services have claimed a great deal of interest amongst local nonconformist churches during the week-end, and the hymns of thanksgiving have been sung with great heartiness by a grateful people. "All is safely gathered in" could not be sung as a literal truth, for in the higher reaches of the dale even the hay harvest is far from complete. However, the efforts were expressive of more than a local outlook. At the Primitive Methodist Chapel at Bowles and Mickleton the tasteful decorations and display of fruit and vegetables were evidences of laborious toil and generous hearts. Bowles had as their special visitors Messrs J. Alderson and J. Hope, from Eberley, who took part in the meeting on Saturday night, over which Mr J. W. Temple presided. They also conducted the services on Sunday, Mr Alderson as preacher and Mr Hope as vocalist. The public meeting at Mickleton was presided over by Mr Kettlewell, and addressed by Mrs Wheeler and the Rev. C. Pettler. Mr Hudson, of Bedale, preached to good congregations on Sunday. The pastor of the Baptist Church, Middleton (the Rev. W. Sumner), conducted the harvest festival services on Sunday. Mr T. Coatsworth presided over a musical service on Monday night, when Mrs Wheeler gave an address.

Much local interest was centred in the wedding of Sapper J. J. Thompson, of the Royal Engineers, and Miss Margaret Thompson, Ashburn House, Middleton, which took place at the Primitive Methodist Church, on Monday.

Grouse shooting commenced in Teesdale on Lord Barnard's estate during the early part of last week, and good sport was realized.

Teesdale Tank Officer and His Crew.

THRILLING ADVENTURES IN BATTLE.

[PASSED AS CENSORED BY THE PRESS BUREAU]

Among the many adventures of officers and men who took part in the great battle, perhaps that of a Teesdale officer and his crew is not the least remarkable. A brother officer writing to his parents at Hutton Magna Vicarage to announce their son's safe arrival in the British lines, says: "He has just come in from action, and is worn out. He left camp on Saturday night and went into action on Sunday morning, reached his objectives in fine style and then had the misfortune to get 'ditched.' He held on gallantly to his post for a long time, then sent some of his men back and tried to get back himself. In this latter endeavour he had some weird experiences, and was at one time actually a prisoner in the hands of the Hun, but escaped immediately by his great presence of mind and the judicious use of a 'Mille' bomb which he had in his pocket. The Homeric tale of his adventures in the Hun trenches will doubtless reach you in full later. The wounds in his hands are tiny punctures, painful, but will soon heal. He has done excellent work, and behaved gallantly." Some of these adventures are graphically described by the War Correspondent of the "Daily Mail." The writer says: "One Tank lies moribund in the front of our latest line of advance, and the story of its crew's escape is characteristic of the new warfare. He serpentined forward unattended to attack a German stronghold. His approach and the rattle of his shell sent some of the enemy running, while a few more daring than the rest vainly attacked him with bomb and rifle. At this crisis the Tank became 'ditched,' and was reduced to the condition of a motionless fort of steel instead of concrete, and the crew held their steel for till dusk, fighting the rival and bigger defence of concrete. They were straddled in the enemy's country, but taking out their Lewis guns and destroying the interior of the machine, they slipped out and started on a pilgrimage home. It was dusk, and directions were hard to keep and so it came about that many of the crew were soon separated. The Germans were in possession, scattered about in shell holes. The young officer, scouting alone, found himself suddenly in the midst of one of their little garrisons, but, in spite of the surprise, he had time to nip a bomb out of his pocket, release the pin, jerk the bomb into the enemy's midst and bolt into darkness again. He had now quite lost direction, and as dawn was still within the enemy's lines. There was nothing for it but to lie low in a shell hole till darkness came again. Next night luck was with him. He avoided all Germans, though he was once fired on by one of our own patrols, and, after much trouble, persuaded his friends that he was not an enemy, and reached the British lines on the Tuesday morning. Others had other experiences, but every man of this crew came safely home."

LOCAL VEGETABLE SHOW.

Mrs Bell-Irving as an Amateur Gardener. The first show of vegetables associated with the horticultural efforts of local allotment-holders took place in the Castle Garth on Saturday afternoon. The exhibits were staged in two small marquees, and were eminently meritorious. The display was by no means pretentious, but was nevertheless welcomed as an earnest to cope with a threatened food shortage, and was evidence moreover of a spirit of enterprise and determination on the part of the working classes which is commendable in every sense of the word. The judges were Mr Tullett, head gardener, Raby Castle; and Mr Dalgarne, head gardener at the Bowes Museum.

The Opening Proceedings. Mr C. Hedley, J.P., presided at the formal opening, and, in introducing Mrs Bell-Irving, said that since his appointment as Chairman of the Urban Council he had functioned but he appreciated more than the little gathering of that day. He wished the movement success, and hoped in time it would return to the popularity of the old flower show days. Should such a consummation be reached he would like to utter one word of warning, and that was to keep the exhibition confined to flowers, fruits and vegetables, always remembering that it was the added industrial section which ruined their old show. The exhibits, in a year like this, were a great credit to the neighbourhood and cultivators alike.

Mrs Bell-Irving, who had an enthusiastic reception, in a smart, humorous address, formally opened the show. She said she could appreciate the difficulties of the allotment holders, because she had an allotment all her own, though they would not believe it. (Laughter.) She had dug about half-a-yard when she began organising other people's labour, and she found a Colonel in the Engineers, who was staying at Rokeby Park, most useful in spade work to the extent of three square yards. (More laughter.) Then two tramps were requisitioned, who developed a weakness for cigarettes. (Renewed laughter.) Mrs Bell-Irving seriously emphasised the view that the nation which would survive in this war would be the people who could produce their own food and fuel, and added that they had all done a tremendous amount of good in their gardens.

Mr Walker Wayne moved, and Mr Wiseman seconded a cordial vote of thanks to Mrs Bell-Irving and the judges, and a little lame boy modestly presented Rokeby's fair lady with a lovely bouquet of flowers. Dancing took place to the music of an orchestral band.

Successful Vegetable Show at Egglestone.

On Saturday afternoon, in a field kindly lent by Mrs Jos. Watson, the Hill Top (Egglestone) Flower and Vegetable Society held their third annual show, which was entirely successful. There were a few more classes than last year, and numerically the entries were much in excess of previous occasions. Some really good exhibits were staged in all departments, and the vegetables were quite a credit to the growers. The handwriting by the school-children was meritorious, and the quilts on view displayed some exceedingly fine needlework. In the freework class there were seven exhibits, and the first prize was awarded to a model of the Tower Bridge. The results were as follows:—

OPEN CLASSES. Best three kidney potatoes—O. Haine, Mickleton; 2 G. Beadle, Woodland. Best three round potatoes—O. Beadle; 2 T. Haine, Mickleton. Best three vegetables—R. Ebbatson, Shildon; 2 J. Robinson. Best handwriting for girls over 11 years—B. Lodge; 2 L. Dalvin. Special prize of a silver cup for best potato in district classes—S. Hodson.

The bread and quilts were judged by Mrs W. Coates and Mrs Legham, and the vegetable and other classes by Mr T. Todd and Mr Ingham. A medal of praise is due to the indefatigable honorary secretary (Mr M. J. Morton) and Mr E. Icton (honorary treasurer), who were assisted by a band of willing helpers. The Rev. E. O. Butler (Vicar) and Mr J. Kidd, jun., were the stewards.

A quilt handicap was won by Messrs J. Kidd, jun., and J. Bainbridge; second, Messrs J. Lodge and J. Plews. A guessing competition was won by Mr H. Wade, the exact number being 190. In the evening a well-attended dance took place in the tent, the music being supplied by Messrs J. Bainbridge, R. Bainbridge, and H. Watson.

MIDDLETON NOTES.

Mr T. R. Gowing presided over the monthly meeting of the Middleton Parish Council on Tuesday week, when matters relating to the footbridge at Burn foot were further considered. It was decided to comply with the request of the District Council and contribute £16 towards the cost of material for re-erecting the bridge, the Rural Council bearing the remainder of the expense.

The Middleton Wesleyan circuit quarterly meeting was held on Saturday, the Rev. G. Glanfield presiding. The numerical and financial statement was considered satisfactory. The consent of the meeting was granted to the Rev. G. Glanfield's request for three months' absence to enable him to serve in the Y.M.O.A. kits in connection with the forces.

The Rev. J. T. Wardie Stafford, D.D., visited Middleton last Wednesday, when he preached and lectured on "The re-birth of Great Britain."

The remains of the late Mr Thomas Bainbridge, an old Teesdale standard, were laid to rest on Sunday afternoon, in St. Mary's churchyard, Middleton. Deceased was 78 years of age.
