Folk singer Michael Coverdale of Dale Road, Barnard Castle, won the talent show's adult section with two traditional Irish numbers which he performed unaccompanied.

It was his first time in the show and he entered at almost the last minute. He said he was surprised when chosen by the judges - the mayor and mayoress, John and Janet Eglinton, and Paul and Gillian Branch.

In second place was brilliant piper Sarah Waldron of Staindrop, who though only 14 was promoted to the senior section by the judges. She had won the junior section for the previous two years.

Third were the Firemen, whose lineup of Mark Knight, Arthur Dye, Richard Brown, Martin Sowerby and Trevor

The Firemen's team in the 10 mile run is at the front: Richard Brown, Andy Rathbone, Mark Sumner and Stephen Dry. At the back is the four mile squad which wore helmets and other gear: Martin Sowerby, Arthur Dye, Stewart Mason and Mark Knight

The Firemen's crew which won the comic boat race was made up of Arthur Dye, Keith Pritchard, Martin Sowerby, Mark Knight, Richard Brown and Stephen Dry. They were delighted to receive the silver

Watson, assisted by a curious woman called Keith Pritchard, did a spot of magic.

First in the junior section were Ben and Jenny Wilson of Montalbo Road, Barnard Castle, who gave pleasing duets on cello and violin. Second were Phillip Woodall, Gemma Edwards and Jessica Hesp of Thorngate, who did a singing act. Third equal were a trio of singing girls - Sarah Jane Watson, Natalie Watson and Fiona Hall of Hilton Road, Barnard Castle - and seven year old Kathryn Palmer, who recited a poem about a poor mother and baby.

The Witham Hall was packed for the show, sponsored by the Mercury, with every seat taken, and unfortunately there was no room for some late arrivals.

There was an excellent short concert by the Deerbolt Lady Singers, and a hearty sing song led by Neville Kirby of Ingleton.

Lots of happy action packed into big carnival weekend

Many people were pleased to see these Guides and Friends of Guides serving hot drinks at the fair on a chilly morning. In the party were Eileen Symonds, Carole Naseby, Verity Naseby, Barbara Pooley, Wanda Baxter, Fiona Cooper, Julia Gibb, Kerry Ashburner, Mary Ashburner and Lynette Bateman

The fancy dress crew judged by Mr Clarrie Watson to have caused most fun in the boat race was The Flintstones - Alan

Pattison, Darren Moore, Brian Chisnell, Vince Cassidy and Jamie Albin. They were a fine bunch of fur-clad cavemen.

School celebrates its new extension

Since the start of the summer term life has been disrupted for pupils of Cotherstone School by building work, but it is now nearing completion.

To celebrate the opening of the extension, which will make a significant difference to the school, and to give local residents a chance to look round, the school's Friends are holding a cheese and wine social on Wednesday 14th June 7-9pm. Tickets are £1.50 at the door.

The Friends are inviting all staff and helpers at the school who have been working hard for the recent Ofsted inspection. There will be a display of old photographs featuring former pupils. The annual grand raffle, with an array of good prizes, will be launched during the evening.

People with Plans

Teesdale Council's latest list of planning applications is:

Mrs A.P. Foster, Central Buildings, Staindrop, erection of signboard; and advertisement consent. Mr and Mrs D. Robson, 36 The Bank, Barnard Castle, erection of lean-to sun room and bin store at rear; and listed building consent.

Raby Estate, yard in Winston Road, Staindrop, widening existing entrance gateway. Durham County Waste Management Co, within highway maintenance depot, B6277, Middleton, household waste disposal compound.

School's stall

Members of Teesdale School Parent-Teacher Association are holding their annual summer market stall in Barnard Castle on Wednesday 14th June. Parents and friends are asked to support the effort. Donations of cakes, plants, preserves and bric-a-brac (but not clothes) can be sent to the school beforehand or taken to the stall from 8.30am. "Please help us support Teesdale School," say the organisers.

Lots of cuddly pets in show

There were a lot of entries and a good attendance for the Meet pet show, organised by Mrs Hazel Yeadon, Kerry Ashburner and the guides. Judges were Helen Buchanan and Robert Foale of Castle Vets. They had a tough job before deciding:

Pedigree dogs: 1, Murphy the pointer, shown by Jessica Ellwood of Startforth; 2, Barney the cocker spaniel, Margaret Ross, Bridgegate; 3, Lyn the Labrador, David Atkinson, Startforth.

Cats: 1, Marty, Genette Bergin, Green Lane; 2, Ginger, Mandy Folkes, Newgate; 3, Sooty, Megan Bradley, Startforth. Rabbits: 1, Bumble, Michelle Murrell, Bridgegate; 2, Stew, Helena McKie, Dale Road; 3, Smokey, Robert and Claire Farrer, Woodlands Road.

Other pets: 1, Clyde, guinea pig, Sarah Pearson, Barningham; 2, Squeak, hamster, Susan Addison, Stoney Keld; 3, Cheech, chinchilla, Ben Greaves, Stainton Grove.

Special prize: Coco the dog, shown by the Firemen.

Village award

Parish councillors from Winston went to Durham County Hall to receive a commendation in the environment award scheme for improvement work carried out in the village.

It included work done to improve the Teesdale Way, the clearance of scrub next to the playing field and planting of rose bushes. The projects were largely the idea of former parish councillor Ivor Appleton, who organised working parties from the village to do the tasks.

There was also another award for Teesdale for the musical features of a woodland trail in Hamsterley Forest.

Antiques evening

Barnard Castle and Teesdale branch of the NSPCC is holding an antique road show at the Morritt Arms on Thursday 22nd June at 7.30pm. All who go are welcome to take an antique item. There will be a raffle and lucky ticket number. Tickets are £5 including coffee and biscuits. The members say, "Come along and have an interesting and entertaining evening."

Card sharp Gill Harle made a lot of money for cancer research at the fair. Here she is with her deck and Helen Maude, Amy Tarn, Philip Woodall and Michelle Wilkinson

Members of the Ladies Circle had plenty of bottles of the hard stuff as prizes on their tombola stall at the castle fair

Mrs Barbara Bracchi, chairman of Teesdale School PTA, with Mrs Patricia Atkinson and other supporters selling ducks for the PTA's big race on the Tees. Over 800 were bought. First prize of £100 went to A. Smith; 2, £50 P. Edwards; 3, £25 A. Bishop. Mrs Bracchi gave thanks to all who supported the event, including sixth formers who stood in the river to recover ducks and canoeists who gave a lot of assistance.

This drunken lot is the Castle Players' Cast who performed the Reeve's Tale from Canterbury Tales at the fair: Simon Pell, Judith Nash, Margaret Lee, Alan Jones, Andrew Stainthorpe and John Stead. It was a good forerunner to another production, see below.

A treat of bawdy tales and mooning

There could hardly be a jollier end to a bank holiday than the presentation of The Canterbury Tales, with a superb cast headed by Brian Glover, which a good number of Teesdale people enjoyed at Darlington Civic on Monday night.

They got high value for their money as Glover and others were busy in the audience before the bawdy treat started, putting their point of view and earning gales of laughter. And they were about to go on stage in the interval to buy a tart and a drink.

This version of Chaucer's work, directed by Peter James, zips along at a lively pace, with Glover and his team - Brian Cant, Matthew Andrews, Jane Burke, David Gilbrook, Knight Mantell, Sarah Whitlock, Peter Leafe and Susan Earnshaw - bringing the observers into the action frequently.

The rude jokes and noises go down well, as does the mooning. Whose tale gets the audience's vote at the end? It is hardly surprising that it goes to the Miller's story related by Brian Glover - but the whole lot are approved, as shown by a series of noisy curtain calls. The excellent show goes on all this week.

Win tickets to see Rod Stewart

We have been given six tickets priced at £23.50 each for Rod Stewart's concert with his band and 22 piece orchestra at Gateshead International Stadium this Sunday 4th June; doors open 4.30pm.

We are offering them in three prizes of two tickets each. Make up 10 words from the letters in Rod Stewart, write them out, add your name and address and send them to the Mercury. Closing time is 3pm this Friday, 2nd June. The first three correct entries drawn from a hat will earn the senders a pair of tickets each, and we will ensure they receive them by Saturday morning. Send entries to Concert Competition, Teesdale Mercury, 24 Market Place, Barnard Castle, Co Durham DL12 8EP
