Real help for farmers needed

THE countryside is in crisis due to the Foot and Mouth epidemic. Businesses and individuals are suffering, none more so than the farming community. That is why the Teesdale Mercury is pleased to support the Royal Agricultural Benevolent Institution's appeal (see coupon below) for donations to those worst affected by hardship.
Founded in 1860, the RABI is a national charity in England, Wales and Northern Ireland dedicated to helping members of the farming community suffering hardship. This includes farmers, farm managers and farm workers, together with their families.
The RABI provides help to working families suffering financial hardship. As well as this they assist a wide range of most vulnerable members of the farming community, such as elderly, those with mental or physical disabilities, those suffering terminal or serious illness, or those in need of a home or residential care.
Please give as generously as you can.
George Nicholson, RABI
